

Each keynote address gets 3 minutes to speak.

Introduction: Steve Hargadon

1. Kathy Schrock - Infographics as a Creative Assessment.
Infographics as a creative assessment tool. She's got a video. This is a cool idea for kids to make.
2. Brad Flickinger - Unbelievable Elementary Tech Projects.
21st cent. skills need 21st cent assessment. Animation and other tools.
3. Howie DiBlasi - "Making Waves In A Changing Education World"
Look for his website.
4. Cindy Lane- "Geo Apps Span the Curriculum"
<http://goo.gl/f9e8U> Google Earth.
5. Joan Gore and Janet Corder - "Success Solutions for the High Tech Classroom"
Not so interesting. Doesn't help bein grla
6. Adam Bellow - "Web Tools to Make Your Classroom Rock!"
www.edutecher.com
3x3 Links
7. (No one signed up)
8. Steve Hargadon: "School 2.0"
9. Tammy Worcester: Google Projects for Kids!
Google Apps.
10. Rurik Nackerud: "Sharing is Caring"
Comparing the irony of Using computers, but not having them.
Using social networking to collaborate on tasks.
11. Kevin Honeycutt: Trends, Tools, & Tactics
Ok, this one is cool. If you don't cite your source, I delete it. This one is NMSA worthy.
12. Katherine Walraven, Learning in a Digital Age
Youth Technology and the World We Want. She's from Taking IT Global.
13. Bernajean Porter's Spotlight I-imagine: Waking Up a Generation for Greatness
This is a corporate sponsored keynote. The I Imagine Program.
14. Scott McLeod: Where we are, where we need to go, and the importance of leadership.
We all have a voice, we can all find each other, leads to powerful learning.
CASTLE: Help leaders reinvent schools by reinventing themselves.
Well done.

15. Being Agents of Change.